Smashing Win For Adenauer in Germany

By BRACK CURRY

BERLIN (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer won an immense election triumph today and immediately pledged that West Germany would throw "all its political and moral weight" behind the Western alliance.

The 61-year-old chancellor was turned to power for another four years in yesterday's voting in a victory so complete it stunned his neutral-minded Socialist opponents and surprised even law own supporters. The Communists in East Germany were dumb.

His Christian Democratic Union, which won an absolute majority for the first time in a free German election four years ago, not only retained that majority but increased it in an outpouring of more than 31 million votes.

Adenauer's third straight national election victory since the West German Republic was created in 1949 was a heavy blow to the Soviet Union and a triumph for the United States. Fearful of West Germany's mounting economic and military power, the Russians had pulled all possible strings in an effort to defeat the iron-willed chancellor.

So confident of success that he did not wait up for the final returns last night, Adenauer was smiling and joking when he met reporters at the chancellery entrance this morning.

He interpreted the election results as a strengthening of "the forces seeking world peace." The world had waited in doubt for the result, he said, wondering whether Russia hoped that Bonn would quit NATO would be realized.

West Germany's foreign policy will be a safe foundation for the policies of NATO under the leadership of the "United States," he said slowly and deliberately.

"Germany will be able to give all its political and moral weight to this policy."

"The aims of the policy are: a controlled disarmament, a relaxation of international tension, reunification of Germany and genuine peace for all nations."

Annual Stock Show Tour Is Wednesday

The annual tour for the purpose of publicizing the Third District Livestock Show will get under way Wednesday morning September 18. The caravan will leave the coliseum at 7 o'clock sharp, make a swing through the business district of Hope and be on its way to Nashville, Murfreesboro, Deloit, Arkadelphia, Gurdon, Prescott, Camden, Stephens, McNeil, Magnolia, Waldo, Stamps, Lewisville, and back into Hope.

Some twelve to fifteen members of the Hope High School Band will accompany the touring group, furnishing music at each stop. The schedule is arranged so as to be in Prescott for the parade of the Nevada County Fair at 11 o'clock. Band members of the tour will join the balance of the Hope High School Band at that point where they will appear in the parade.

After the parade in Prescott the caravan will proceed to Camden for lunch. If a sufficient number of cars make the trip it is planned to send part of the group from Waldo through Rosston and Bodeau, the remainder making the Stamps, Lewisville stops.

All persons planning to make this tour are asked to contact the Chamber of Commerce office as soon as possible so arrangements for rides can be worked out. Two or three station wagons are needed to handle the band students and their instruments.

The way some people drive, they should have iron pillars in their gas tanks.

Spring Hill Meet Gets Underway

A tent revival gets underway tonight at 7:45 at Spring Hill and will continue through September 22 with James R. Braswell of Waldo doing the preaching. Evening Shade Church of Christ, Durwood Anderson, pastor, is the sponsoring church. Everyone is invited.

U.S. Planning H-Bomb Tests in the Spring

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States pushed plans today for new H-bomb tests next spring and offered to let the world come see how "clean" the dreaded hydrogen bomb can be.

A government announcement of the tests also hinted at development of new means of defense against any Soviet intercontinental missile attack, but did not elaborate.

Underlining the failure of recent disarmament talks, the Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department announced jointly yesterday a new test series will be held beginning next April at the Eniwetok proving grounds in the Pacific.

While the announcement specified only "nuclear" tests, Eniwetok is used almost entirely for H-bomb explosions. Tests with less potent atomic weapons are currently being conducted at the Nevada proving grounds here in the United States. Russia also is currently conducting tests. Whether they are atomic or hydrogen bombs has not been divulged.

The U.S. announcement said preparations for the new series are underway "in the absence of a safeguarded disarmament agreement." It noted this country "repeatedly has stated its willingness to suspend nuclear tests as part of a disarmament agreement."

But it said until such agreement is reached "continued development of nuclear weapons is essential to the defense of the United States and of the free world."

Mindful of widespread fears of H-bomb tests, the announcement said they will be governed by this country's Bermuda promise of last March to conduct tests "only in such a manner as will keep world radiation from rising to more than a small fraction" of possibly dangerous levels.

Ten Persons Die in Crash of Airliner

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — A Northeast Airlines plane, headed for New York through a soupy fog with 24 persons aboard crashed in mucky Apogonasset Swamp just short of the New Bedford airport last night.

The pilot, copilot and eight passengers died in the crash which tore the DC3 plane apart. Fourteen passengers and the stewardess were injured. They were at St. Luke's Hospital where doctors placed the names of at least five on the danger list.

It took rescuers three hours to reach the scene, just a half mile short of the runway for which it was headed.

Bodies were flung about in an area 50 yards square.

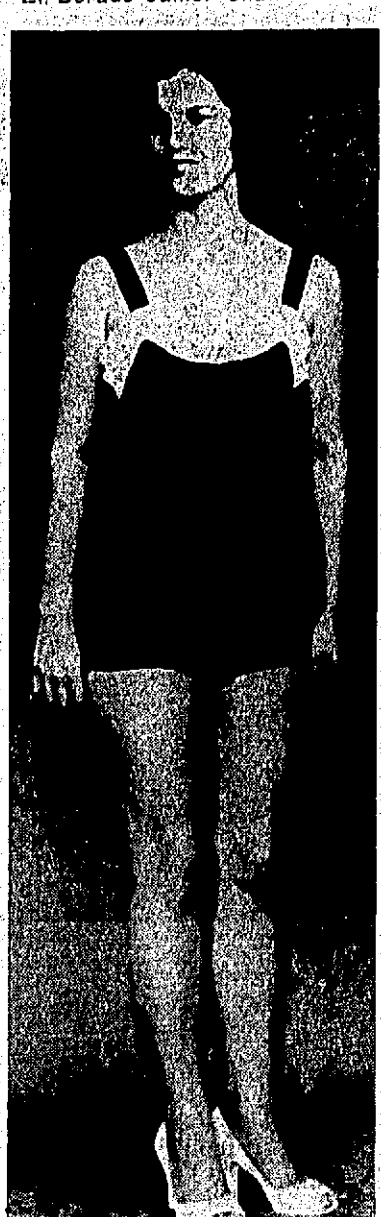

Surviving injured and dead were inched out of the swamp by scores of rescuers who bridged mud ponds with fire ladders. The ladders were passed, hand-to-hand across these slippery, improvised

Faubus Orders Guards to Stay at Central High

By RELMAN MORIN

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — National Guardsmen — but only a handful — reported for duty at Central High School again today amid increasing rumors that Gov. Orval Faubus may withdraw them entirely before the end of the week.

No comment on the reports from the governor's mansion.

Approximately 300 guardsmen took stations at the school this morning when classes resumed at the high school. After reporting, some of them went to a nearby drugstore for coffee and soft drinks. A week ago, 250 soldiers surrounded the school.

No Negroes attempted to approach the big school building that has become a symbol of the great clash between the federal government and Faubus.

Between 25 and 30 adults gathered on the sidewalk across the street. In a good-natured mood, they joked with reporters.

In a television interview last night, Faubus said it is "foreseeable" that the guards could be withdrawn "this week."

He also said "there were certain areas of agreement" that developed in his conference Saturday at Newport, R. I., with President Eisenhower.

But he still says Negro students will not be permitted to enroll in the high school until a condition of "tranquillity exists in the city." He will be the judge of when that condition has come, he said in the TV talk.

The prevailing belief in Little Rock today — and it is not supported by any solid information from the governor's mansion — is that Faubus will remove the Guard within a few days, perhaps Wednesday or Thursday.

He has been summoned to appear in U.S. District Court Friday. There, in all probability, he will be asked to present the evidence he claims to have that violence would have taken place at the high school had he not put the guardsmen there with orders to turn away Negroes.

U.S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies issued a summons to Faubus to appear Friday for a hearing on a petition to enjoin him from interfering with the enrollment of the Negroes.

Faubus' information and FBI reports presumably will be aired together — if the hearing takes place — if the hearing takes place. Faubus still is sticking to his contention that he acted in response to his information as to what would happen. He said in the interview last night that "many of the facts are known to many people."

Faubus was asked if Eisenhower had said anything at Newport that changed his position.

"Not as to the situation that exists locally," Faubus replied. "Any fair-minded person would grant that I would know more about that than anyone outside."

It appeared today that unless some specific word comes from Faubus, Negro students will not attempt to test the situation by again trying to enroll at Central High.

Admits Shooting A Negro Officer

PINE BLUFF (AP) — Police today questioned a Negro they say admitted killing a Negro deputy sheriff with the officer's pistol on a street here yesterday.

The victim was Lestach Browder, 50, who had been a Jefferson County deputy for about 20 years. Browder's body, with two gunshot wounds, was found in the morning. The suspect was arrested later in the day.

Sheriff Harold Norton said officers, acting on a tip, arrested the man as he walked along a road on the southeast edge of Pine Bluff.

A motive for the killing has not been established yet, police said.

No charges have been filed. Norton said the suspect told police he had thrown away Browder's gun after the killing. He agreed to lead officers to the weapon today.

City Police Capt. Bill Howard said Browder apparently was killed while trying to make an arrest about 9 a.m.

Witnesses saw Browder and a Negro scuffling shortly before the deputy was found dead in the Negro residential district, Howard said.

The deputy's car was found abandoned about 15 blocks from the scene.

Arkansas Man Held for Kidnapping

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — A 20-year-old Pine Bluff, Ark., man wanted on a kidnapping warrant was seized near here yesterday after a car chase with speeds up to 120 miles per hour.

The 15-year-old Fordyce, Ark., was found with him unharmed. Ronald Earl Hayes was held on a federal charge of kidnapping Patsy Sue Crawford at Fordyce last Friday. The warrant was filed before Charles Goldberger of Pine Bluff, Ark.

The girl, who said she had not been molested during the trip to Arizona, was held for her parents in the matron's quarters of the Flagstaff city jail.

Arizona authorities were asked to be on the lookout for Hayes when it was learned he had a brother here and another at nearby Cottonwood.

Police said they chased a car fitting the description of one Hayes was reported driving. They said the 17-mile chase ended when the girl shut off the ignition of the fleeing car and tossed the keys into the back seat.

The cars reached speeds of 120 mph, a police officer said.

Flagstaff Police Chief William Epperson quoted Miss Crawford as saying she had dated Hayes and that, after she refused to marry him, he forced her to accompany him to Arizona.

A report to use it when arrested, told him Hayes had threatened to kill her on the way but had not harmed her.

Police said Hayes had a loaded shotgun in his car but made no attempt to use it when arrested.

The FBI at Little Rock said Hayes will be taken before U. S. Commissioner Paul Perdue in Flagstaff today for arraignment.

Accusation Made During Press Meet

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — The White House today accused a group of top Democrats of "lying to play politics" with the school integration controversy in Little Rock, Ark.

The accusation was fired at the President's vacation headquarters by his press secretary, James C. Hagerty. He was commenting on an assertion by 15 members of the 24-member Democratic advisory Council that Eisenhower "failed to use the prestige and power of his office... against defiance of law" at Little Rock.

Hagerty brought up the matter at a news conference before newsmen had a chance to ask for comment.

"I think it would be funny if it were not so pathetic," Hagerty said, "to see the Democratic advisory Council trying to play politics with the situation in Little Rock."

"The President is concerned with solutions and not with political speeches," Hagerty said.

Hagerty was asked whether Eisenhower had read about the Democratic attack on him and had instructed Hagerty to put out the statement he did.

The press secretary replied only that the President "has seen the statement."

"What did he say about it?" Hagerty then was asked.

"I'll let my statement stand," Hagerty said.

The vacationing President was scheduled to talk over international problems today with a national security aide here from Washington.

2 Accidents, Theft Probed by Police

Two accidents were investigated by Hope City Police. Late Friday at Third and Hazel auto driven by Julian E. Kahn of Dallas and Calvin Coleman, Hope, collided with fence, bumper and wheel damage to both vehicles. Officers charged Kahn with failure to yield the right-of-way.

Saturday on South Main an auto driven by Leon P. Harrison, Rosston, collided with another driver by Junior Newton, Prescott R. 3. The Newton car had stopped and the Harrison car hit it from behind, causing "fender and headlight damage." Harrison was charged with following too close.

Officers also reported the theft of a billfold containing about $10 from the home of F. C. Clark on Berry Street. The thief entered the house through a window.

The affair is sponsored each year by the Crittenden County Bar Association which plays host to the lawyers of eastern Arkansas at a mammoth barbecue. The barbecue is usually held at the country home of Gus Zanone on Horseshoe Lake, but this year was moved to West Memphis because of the threat of rain.

crisis, the President arranged to confer at the Newport White House with Robert Cutler, a specialist on security matters.

There was no immediate White House comment on Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus' assertion last night that National Guard troops would not be ordered away from Little Rock's Central High School today.

Faubus, who met with Eisenhower for more than two hours Saturday, left open the possibility of removal of the troops — being used to bar mingling of white and Negro pupils — later in the week if he should decide an atmosphere of tranquility prevails.

After the meeting with Faubus, Eisenhower said in a statement the governor had assured him he intends "to respect the decision of the United States District Court" which ordered integration in Little Rock schools.

Neither the President nor Faubus said anything Saturday about whether the National Guardsmen would be pulled away from the school.

Cutler was here to report to the President on a National Security Council meeting held in the capital last Thursday. Vice President Nixon presided in Eisenhower's absence.

There was no indication Cutler's visit has any emergency aspect. In Washington he and the President confer several times a week.

At church services here yesterday, the President commended a Navy chaplain's sermon remarks on school integration and told him: "I have been trying to convey an idea you cannot legislate morality where human beings are involved. It must come from within."

The chaplain, Lt. Valery Sundt, said in his sermon at the First Presbyterian Church that it is "a tragedy that there are Christian people on both sides" in the school integration controversy.

"It is not just a problem of the South's evils and the North's righteousness," said the 39-year-old chaplain from New London, Conn. He is stationed at the Newport naval base.

He said further, "There can be no wholesale condemnation of one area by another," and the added that "may sincere people think that God can be on both sides."

The clergyman called for "prayerful patience" and appealed to the congregation not to judge.

The President spent a restful sabbath—a day which marked the start of national Civil Defense Week.

In a film recording for television, Eisenhower appealed for widespread participation in civil defense programs. He said the United States is devoted to a "search for enduring peace," but "meanwhile must be strong militarily."

"The atom," he said, "can be made to work usefully for mankind, for the good of all, instead of growing as a menace to our very existence. But until it is made so to work, and until the possibility of nuclear destruction is removed, it is of the utmost importance to all of us that we create and maintain a total national defense readiness."

"We cannot permit weakness in either military or civil defense to tempt a reckless aggressor. Total readiness is the greatest deterrent to any aggression."

THREE ACRES ON THE MOVE—The largest tow ever transported on the Tennessee River is pictured on Pickwick Lake, about 215 miles from its starting point, Paducah, Ky. The tow of 24 barges, loaded with grain, scrap iron and steel is en route from Paducah to Knoxville, Tenn. The 24 barges, in a formation 100 feet wide, cover an area of approximately 120,000 square feet or almost three acres. The tow is being pushed by a diesel tow boat, the Robin. (In river parlance, a tow is a formation of barges pushed, not pulled, by a tow boat). The 3,200 horsepower Robin is the most powerful boat on the Tennessee River. A big tow such as this is not unusual for the Mississippi River, but for the Tennessee it is an all-time record.

THE CANVAS DAGGER

by HELEN REILLY

THE STORY: Sarah and Tom Gillespie visit the home occupied last year by Grant Melville, the painter, believed to have been murdered. While they are there, Miss Cystabel Dolwin enters and examines some paintings, including a mutilated canvas.

CHAPTER XVIII

Lieutenant Carney might have been made of wood for all the reaction he showed.

"You last saw this man Dennert on Friday night, making for a Boston train. When you drove up here to your aunt's house on Saturday you had no idea that Dennert was coming to Cornwall."

She said gently, "Neither Mr. Gillespie nor I had the slightest notion of where Mr. Dennert was bound for."

"And Mr. Gillespie—did you know when he left 'you Friday night that he was coming to Cornwall?"

She explained that Tom had come at Mrs. Melville's suggestion made later on Friday night, after she and Tom had parted. Mrs. Melville had suggested that the cottage on the hill where Grant Melville had done a lot of painting might be a good starting place for the biography—he had a number of friends here.

Sarah had a flash of Tom peering through the window of the pink room in the dusk, bent forward in a crouching attitude. She said that they met outside on the terrace, that Tom had walked enough.

Bourgeois-Maunoury hopes to push forward his plan, in hope he can work out some compromise with the Algerian nationalists.

He is trying to get it approved before the United Nations General Assembly takes up the Algerian issue.

The General Assembly will open its regular annual meeting Tuesday, simultaneously with the French National Assembly.

On the U.N. program is a resolution, offered by 21 "anti-colonial" Asian and African countries, to debate the Algerian issue as a danger to peace.

As soon as the Algerian debate has been finished in the National Assembly, Bourgeois-Maunoury will face a much more serious debate on his agricultural price controls.

That issue could bring about a vote of no confidence and thus force Bourgeois-Maunoury's resignation as France's 22nd post-war premier.

French farmers regarded as the chief stabilizing force in politically mercurial France—and powerfully represented in parliament—bitterly oppose the price controls.

Bourgeois-Maunoury imposed the controls last month as part of his austerity program. Under this plan, ceilings were set on farm prices.

the house. Tom said he must just have missed him.

For all his mildness the Lieutenant had a way of saying "I see," that was annoying. He was called to the phone again then; he closed the door behind him when he went, and left them alone.

Tom came over to Sarah's chair. "You didn't mention Channing to the police."

He spoke in a low voice. Sarah had to think for a moment who Channing was—of course, his uncle, Channing Hall. She shook her head and he looked relieved.

The lieutenant came back. His amiability had faded. "Let's go back a little. The last you saw of Dennert was last Friday night when he was going through the gates at Grand Central to board a Boston train."

Tom nodded.

The lieutenant said, "Well, all I can say is that that's very strange."

"Strange?" Tom remained casual. "I don't get you, Lieutenant, what's strange about it?"

Carney said, and he sounded tired, "Just this. The plane you took is a small job that takes 10 passengers. There were only five coming over from Boston on Saturday morning, and Joseph Dennert was one of them."

It was no surprise they weren't going to be able to leave Cornwall then and there.

CHAPTER XIX

It didn't make any difference how the Manhattan homicide squad, state, county and city of New York, was shifted around, split up, reorganized. When the spoke of the Inspector in the tone the lieutenant had used they meant one man. That man was Christopher McKee, formerly the head of the entire Manhattan homicide squad until it was subdivided.

The tall Scotman had been out of New York when Grant Melville was killed. In his review of back work the report on the dead painter came across his desk. He read it idly at first, then with interest, plucked out the essentials, and sent for the first-grade detective, Brownell, who thought that the girl, Sarah Casement, might have had something.

Grant Melville's history had been rounded out. He had spent a month painting at a cottage he owned in Cornwall prior to his return to New York, and his death. The Scotman had known Carney for some years, and they had worked together on a case up there. He called him.

McKee and Carney talked for some time. Half an hour later McKee was with Grant Melville's widow in the Melville house on Tenth St.

"It was that woman," she cried through her tears. "That nasty woman that brought me here. She hated me. She hated Grant because he married me. She was always trying to get him back, she never gave up."

"That woman, that broomstick," was Grant Melville's first wife, the present Mrs. Batterlee.

She couldn't bear that horrid little house up on the Cape, or those people who were all dead, they hated anyone who had married of lived decently, were sick with envy.

Yes, oh yes, the Batterlees were the worst, far the worst, they were always talking about social justice, on other people's cash. They'd sing a different tune if they had anything themselves. She had gone up there a couple of times when she was first married, and a couple of visits were more than enough. She told Grant then that if he wanted to paint there he would have to go by himself.

She had never previously seen any of the people who had answered her advertisement; she only remembered the man named Dennert because he claimed to have known Grant personally, and because he was so utterly impossible for such a charge. The man to whom she had entrusted it was charming, a Mr. Gillespie.

He was a real author, he had written a splendid novel, had given her a copy. The title was "The Golden Spoon" and the author's name was Dawson Michaels.

"He is, Mrs. Melville said, 'Mr. Gillespie is Dawson Michaels—its a—what do you call it?' She fumbled with pseudonym, came up with her name.

When McKee had dredged up what little else the widow actually had, he left her and mounted to the studio where men from Headquarters had preceded him, Dalling the photographer, and Finley from fingerprints.

Finley did get some prints off the trap door at the top of the stairs, through which the opportunistic thief had come and gone empty-handed on the night of the day Melville was killed. The studio itself bore out the story of the Casement girl had told. The canvas was still on the easel. It was a half-finished landscape.

McKee picked it up and carried it to the window. The paint on it, half an inch thick in places, was hard and bone dry. Grant Melville had been dead a little more than four weeks—the canvas he held hadn't been touched for at least six months. Pigment that thick took a long while to dry out. This was not the canvas Melville had been working on just before his death.

Back at the office he studied the material that had come in. Dennert first, Joseph Dennert had lived in a shabby down-at-heels one-room apartment on East Eighth St. for a little over a year. The rent, $48 a month, had been paid promptly, in cash. None of the other tenants or the janitor knew much about him, where he had come from, where he worked, or for whom.

Crystalbel Dolwin knew. When she was in New York. Miss Dolwin stayed at the Canton, a modest hotel in the West 90s, but there was long gaps. The vivacious and verbose lady was a sculptress.

Among other things, Thomas Gillespie was a liar and a bold one. McKee had the publisher of "The Golden Spoon" checked. Dawson Michaels was a pseudonym used by a prolific author who turned out books fast, and whose real name was Jansen Blues. Mr. Blues was currently traveling in Europe.

While Leahy, the detective on Gillespie, was in the Parliament a lady had called. She seemed very anxious to get in touch with Mr. Gillespie, and she left a number at which he was to call her as soon as he came in. The number as, REgent 3-01887, the unlisted number of Channing Hall.

The Scotsman's brows rose. Channing Hall, banker and economist, was a public figure and had been for many years. He had built inherited money and made it, so he could afford to be independent. He was in the political scene but not of it, a counselor of counselors, a man respected for his acumen and judgment, who was often consulted in national affairs.

those involved with police: "I knew they were going bad, but there was nothing I could do about it."

One brother, James, 20, was shot during his capture. James and brothers Roger, 26, and Ronald, 24, were accused of murdering a policeman and a farmer they took for a hostage. Roger and Ronald were slain while police were trying to capture them.

James O'Kneisk was rushed to Minneapolis General Hospital Saturday night shortly after his two brothers were cut down by police bullets in a swamp near Wyoming, Minn.

The three had killed a Minneapolis policeman and wounded another exactly one month earlier. They also murdered in cold blood a father of three children, whom they took as a hostage on their fear-crazed flight from authorities Saturday.

On route to the hospital, the youth who tried to take his own life with a bullet through the chest admitted taking part in the shooting of the two police officers.

James said he, Roger and Ronald were on their way to rob a store when they were spotted by two officers.

When police cornered them, one of the brothers placed a gun against Lindgren's head and pulled the trigger, killing him instantly.

A highway patrolman promptly cut down Roger and Ronald with a single shotgun blast. James fled to a clump of willows and shot himself in the chest.

A sister of the bandits, Joyce O'Kneisk, 19, escaped last week from the women's state reformatory at Shakopee, Minn., where she was serving a term for forgery. She was arrested Saturday night when she stormed into the hospital demanding to see her brother James.

Shiver-Nations
Bridal Breakfast
Mrs. M. S. Bates complimented Miss Marilyn Shiver with a bridal breakfast in the private dining room of the Diamond Cafe on the morning of the Shiver-Nations wedding. Pink stocks and jade fern were used to decorate the table. The honoree was presented a corsage of Talsman roses. Her mother, Mrs. Harry W. Shiver, and Mrs. W. M. Nations, mother of the bride groom, each received a corsage of pink feathered carnations. Miniature wrought iron chairs marked places for the eight guests.

Miss Shiver Speaks
Vows in Church Rite
Miss Marilyn Shiver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Shiver of Hope, and Ronald Gay Nations, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Nations of Chickasha, Oklahoma, were united in marriage on Saturday, Sept. 14, 1957, in the First Baptist Church of Hope. Dr. John H. McClannahan performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white chrysanthemums, jade fern, and candleabra. The tapers were lighted by Eddie Bulce of Little Rock, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Hendrix Spraggins, organist, played pre-nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Bob Bulce of Little Rock. He sang "At Dawning" and "My Pledge" prior to the exchange of vows and "The Lord's Prayer" while the couple knelt on a prie die at the conclusion of the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over slipper satin. The fitted bodice of lace was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline edged in scallops of the lace. The long fitted sleeves ended in lily points over the hands, and the flared skirt had a panel of lace from the center front to the neckline.

Her shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms and her only ornament was a single strand of pearls. The bouquet she carried was a wedding ring formation designed of Bride's Delight rose buds and stephanotis showered with white satin ribbon tied in love knots.

Mrs. Perry Dale Blount of Malvern, matron of honor, wore a ballerina-length dress of coral taffeta. With it she wore a matching velvet bandeau and carried a picture bouquet of Talsman roses.

Ben Murray of Houston, Texas, served the groom as best man. Ushers were Frank Horton, Louie Shiver of Magnolia, cousin of the bride, Rev. Grover Talbert of Burleson, Texas, brother-in-law of the groom, and Rev. Perry Dale Blount of Malvern.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Hotel Barlow. Mrs. Jerry Bowden of Baton Rouge Louisiana, greeted the guests at the door and introduced them to the receiving line. Besides members of the wedding party, others in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Shiver, parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Nations, parents of the groom.

The bride's table, covered with a floor-length cloth of yellow tulle which had a double ruffle around the bottom and was gathered at the corners with white chrysanthemums, was centered with the bride's wedding bouquet. Mrs. Gene Gutheridge of Little Rock and Mrs. Edward Buechley of Carlisle altered in serving the tiered wedding cake, while Mrs. Ernest Shiver of Magnolia and Mrs. Jay Buechley of Jacksonville presided at the punch bowl in a like manner.

During the reception Miss Charlene Horton played background music on the piano, and Miss Mary Anita Laseter had charge of the bride's book. Assisting in serving the guests were Miss Patsy Keller of Scott, Mrs. W. B. McMahan of El Dorado, Mrs. Grover Talbert of Burleson, Texas, sister of the groom, Mrs. Bob Bulce of Little Rock, Mrs. L. D. Springer, Mrs. Harry O. Klyer, Mrs. F. M. Horton, Mrs. A. A. Albright, Mrs. M. S. Bates, and Mrs. W. A. Williams. Miss Vivian Laura Shiver of Magnolia distributed colored bags of rice to the guests.

Other than the out-of-town participants in the wedding and the reception, those from out-of-town who attended were Jay Buechley of Jacksonville; Ed Buechley of Carlisle; Gene Gutheridge of Little Rock; Dana Shiver of Marshall, Texas; Mrs. Charles Shiver, North Little Rock; Ernest Shiver of Magnolia; Mr. and Mrs. William Prince of Ft. Worth, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Amos Gutheridge of Little Rock; Mrs. Ben Murray of Houston, Texas; and Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Whitlow of Arkadelphia.

Faubus Orders

The Arkansas branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said last night she did not believe any Negro students would renew the attempt to enter.

By RELMAN MORIN

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus ordered the National Guard to take stations again at Central High School today and the hour of decision appeared to be approaching in the critical Little Rock integration controversy.

It is "forseeable" that the Guards may be withdrawn this week, Faubus said in a television interview last night.

He also said "there were certain areas of agreement" that developed in his conference Saturday at Newport, R. I., with President Eisenhower.

But he still says Negro students will not be permitted to enroll in the high school until a condition of "tranquility" exists in the city. He will be the judge of when that moment has come, he said in the TV talk.

The prevailing belief in Little Rock today—and it is not supported by any solid information from the governor's mansion—is that Faubus will remove the Guard within a few days, perhaps Wednesday or Thursday.

He has been summoned to appear in U. S. District Court Friday.

There, in all probability, he will be asked to present the evidence he claims to have that violence would have taken place at the high school had he not put the guards there with orders to turn away Negroes.

U. S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies issued a summons to Faubus to appear Friday for a hearing on a petition to enjoin him from interfering with the enrollment of the Negroes.

Faubus information and FBI reports presumably will be aired together—if the hearing takes place at all.

Faubus still is sticking to his contention that he acted in response to his information as to what would happen. He said in the interview last night that "many of the facts are known to many people."

Faubus was asked if Eisenhower had said anything at Newport that changed his position.

"Not as to the situation that exists locally," Faubus replied. "Any fair-minded persons would grant, that I would know more about that than anyone outside."

It appeared today that unless some specific word comes from Faubus, Negro students will not attempt to test the situation by again trying to enroll at Central High.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said last night she did not believe any Negro students would renew the attempt to enter.

In Cleveland, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, described the Eisenhower-Faubus conference as "blah, blah, blah." "It seems that both gentlemen left themselves open to inference that the governor would obey the law and the courts, but not immediately," Wilkins said.

Faubus said, "All I ask for is time, time for the adjustment of the attitude of the people."

With it she wore beige and black accessories. The corsage she pinned at her shoulder was of Bride's Delight roses and stephanotis. After a wedding trip to New Orleans and other points on the Gulf Coast, Mr. and Mrs. Nations will be at home in Kingsport, Tennessee, where he is employed by the Tennessee Eastman Corporation.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother's Boy No Bargain Even As A Last Resort!

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a woman in my thirties, fairly well satisfied with my lot in life except that I'm not married. Although I am considered attractive and intelligent. I've never had a serious beau. My sister who is married and has five youngsters, insists I'm missing the best things of life. I may have a chance. The man is 15 years older than I, a solid businessman, rather selfish and decidedly egotistical. One drawback is that if I take him I take his mother, a thoroughly disagreeable woman. She'll definitely resent me. She's been used to having Basil all to herself. Should I take the risk, or continue as I am, even if it means—as my sister says—missing everything in life?

MADELEINE

Dear Madeleine: As an astute businesswoman, you should recognize a bargain when you see one and be quick to turn down a proposition when it isn't a good buy. Surely nothing could be worse than a marriage involving selfishness instead of love. A beloved wife and mother is to be envied, it's true, but the unloved wife of a domestic tyrant and the daughter-in-law of a female despot has a life no woman would want.

Don't marry in desperation. The right man may yet come along.

Dear Dorothy Dix: How can I cure myself of jealousy? I've been married for two years to a handsome, successful man who is very attractive to other women. He does nothing to arouse my jealousy but whenever I see another woman look at him I get furious. He works with many young, pretty women and all day I wonder what he's doing with them.

Dear W. J.: If you know anything about business offices, you must realize that the mechanics of making a living don't leave much time for tomfoolery. The best antidote for your jealousy is common sense. You married a handsome fellow and must learn to deal with the consequences.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My sister is about to be married to a man who has two divorces to his credit (?). He makes a very good living, and isn't the least bit stingy, but sure-

The Communist East German to turn to a more neutral position between East and West.

The Communist East German radio said the Adenauer victory was won by "terror in the style of Hitler's storm troops" and threatened European peace. The West German Socialists, it added, had failed to make the best of their opportunities.

A victory for the Socialists could have forced a drastic readjustment of U.S. policy in Europe. As the Socialists and minor parties conceded defeat, Speaker Eugene Cernigoi announced the new Parliament will convene Oct. 10 or 11 in Berlin, the old capital of the Reich.

Presumably Parliament will use this session 100 miles behind the Iron Curtain of Communist East Germany to name Adenauer to his third term as chancellor. The East German propaganda machine kept up its attack on Adenauer to the very last.

Complete official returns from all 247 election districts showed 31,058,319 votes, of which 20,895,946 were valid.

The Christian Democrats had 14,998,754 or 50.18 per cent compared with 45.2 per cent in the 1953 national election.

The Socialists received 8,400,726 or 31.75 per cent against 28.8 per cent in 1953. The Free Democrats polled 2,304,946 or 7.7 per cent compared with 9.6 per cent last time.

The Refugee party had 1,973,001 or 4.50 per cent against 5.9 per cent in 1953.

bridges. The last survivor was brought out just before 2 a.m. As day broke rescuers and investigators saw hats, coats, other clothing and luggage strewn about, some hanging from shattered tree limbs.

Wings were sheared from the plane as it cut a 600-foot long swath through trees in its crash to the swamp.

The plane had radioed it was preparing to make an instrument landing but no further word came. The craft was pointed toward the instrument landing building when found.

Two airport employees said they heard the plane crash at 8:50 p.m., but it was nearly three hours before the first rescue team could reach the scene. The only access to the spot was by foot. Fire fighters' ladders were used as bridges across the swamp and the adjoining paskamasset River. Dr. Robert Siegel, 46, gave this description: "The swamp was soggy and mud and water oozed up to our knees when we first attempted to cross it. We broke branches to form a bridge and tried again. After several attempts we made it."

"Some people were outside the plane. They were moaning. We entered the plane first. We checked the dead. We got bypos to the survivors and bandaged the injured."

George Nelson, building custodian at the airport, said on his return from the crash scene: "Both wings of the plane were ripped off, and it looked like the plane had nosed in at a 45-degree angle. The fuselage was torn open like an eggshell. The nose of the plane was about 50 feet from the wreckage."

George H. Danforth, 55, New York, one of the passengers, said: "When I came to, believe it or not, I was 30 feet away from the plane. I was strapped in my seat with my head down and my feet up, looking up into a sea of mud."

Danforth suffered only a rib fracture.

Staggering Braves See Lead Cut to 2 1/2 Games

By JACK HAND
Of The Associated Press

Are the Milwaukee Braves going to blow it again? Once more the Braves must ask themselves that searching question as the pressure mounts in the National League race. In 12 short days, an 8 1/2-game lead has shrunk to 2 1/2 games.

Encouraged at the sight of the staggering Braves, they charging St. Louis Cardinals have won 9 of their last 11. In that same period Milwaukee has won only 3 of 11. Day by day the three-game series between the two clubs in Milwaukee Sept. 23, 24, 25 looks more likely.

The American League race, on the other hand, appears to be over. The New York Yankees, with a 5 1/2-game lead and only 10 to play, should be beyond the reach of the persistent Chicago White Sox.

Warren Spahn, shooting for his 20th victory, coddled a 2-1 lead into the ninth inning yesterday only to have Philadelphia tie the score in the ninth and finally beat Milwaukee in the 10th 3-2. After two hits Spahn to the snows, Ted Keadanski, a .255 hitter, singled home the winning run.

With Stan Musial back in the starting lineup and chipping in with three hits in six trips, the Cardinals thumped Pittsburgh twice 9-4 and 11-3 behind Fern Tienery and Sam Jones. Two hits in the fifth inning of the opener and five in the first inning of the second game.

Cincinnati slammed four home runs, chasing Don Newcombe, in an 11-8 romp over Brooklyn. Hal Jeffcoat hit one of the homers and took an 11-2 lead into the ninth before he fell apart.

Ed Haas, a rookie outfielder from Port Worth, delivered a pinch single with the bases loaded and the score tied for the Chicago Cubs 7-6 edge over the New York Giants. The rookie's hit made it a double header sweep for the Cubs who won the opener 6-2 behind veteran Bob Bush. Willie Mays had four hits for the Giants including his 41st homer, to hike his average to .338.

The Yanks, hopped on their "equus" from Kansas City 6-3 and 3-0. Tommy Byrne's three-run pinch homer did the job in the seventh. Three straight singles opener, Don Larsen pitched his first shutout since his perfect game in the 1956 World Series when he held the A's to three singles in the second game. Tony Kubek and Harry Simpson homered.

Chicago trailed going into the ninth but scored three against Washington for a 3-1 victory on the night of the 10th. Bob Kegan and rookie Barry Latham. Earl Browder's two-run double was the most important hit in the rally. Jim Lemon's 450-foot homer was the only Washington score.

Jim Bunning won his 19th for Detroit 7-1 in a five-hitter against Boston, positively eliminating the Red Sox from the pennant race. Al Kaline's 23rd homer started the Tigers on the way to their 4-3 second-game victory for Frank Lary.

Baltimore moved into fifth place ahead of Cleveland by taking a pair from the Indians 5-4 in 10 innings and 4-3. A wild throw by Vic Wertz on an attempted double play gave the Orioles the first snuffed out a Baltimore ninth-inning rally. Jim Busby's catch of a potential three-run homer saved the second game in the eighth inning.

Milwaukee appeared to have its game in hand with Spahn holding a one-run lead in the ninth. However, a pinch single by Willie Jones, a single by Richie Ashburn and Chico Fernandez's safe bunt quickly loaded the bases. The tying run scored as Ed Bouche's 18th homer had given the Phils a run in the fourth.

After two hits off Spahn, Manager Fred Haney called on Bob Trowbridge, who yielded the winning hit to Kazanski. Relief man Dick Farrell was the winner.

Ken Boyer and Walker Cooper hit home runs for St. Louis during a five-run spurt in the fifth inning of the first game. Wally Moon hit two in the second game. Neither Wehrmeister nor Jones lasted the route as the Cards hung on to Ronnie Kline and Art Swanson.

Yerger Makes Prescott Its First Victim

In the first non-conference football game of the season, Yerger High School Tigers defeated Prescott 18 to 12 on the local field Saturday night.

Overcoming a series of penalties and fumbles the Tigers managed to score in the opening quarter with Jerry Moss crossing the double stripe. Try for extra point failed. It was practically the same story in the second period with Yerger's James Deloney going over. Again the extra point failed. Prescott completed a 35-yard pass for their second period tally, making the halftime score 12 to 6.

The Tigers scored their third touchdown in the third period when John Wilson took a handoff from Deloney. Good defensive play by Allen, Edwards, Gamble, McFadden, Morrison, Shaw and Prater prevented the visitors from scoring. In the final period Prescott took to the air and managed to score another tally.

Yerger rushed 31 yards and passed 124, making five of 10 good. Prescott rushed 283 yards, got 241 by passing and made seven of 11 passes good.

Sneed Poised for Another Big Victory

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS (AP) — Sam Sneed, the greatest winner in golf history, was poised for victory in his 90th tournament today and there was no one to even hint the colorful old slammer wouldn't make it.

He led the $40,000 Dallas Open by 8 strokes going into the final round because of a 60 that tied the world's record and a 5-under-par 66 yesterday that gave him 199 for 54 holes.

The 60, equalling what some seven golfers had shot before him, was hung up in Saturday's round. That was the one that broke open the tournament.

Sneed entered the third round yesterday with a 2-stroke lead. And as the other contenders faltered, he rolled right along.

"Only thing I was disappointed about was that I didn't get another 60," he said.

In a tie for second place at 204 were Al Besselink, the big blond from Grossinger's, N. Y., and Earl Stewart, the Dallas resident, pro, who got 70 and 72 respectively yesterday.

Tied for fourth were Cary Midgicott, Hollywood, Fla., who switched his affiliation from Dallas only two days ago, and Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., who managed 72 and 71. They had 205.

The cutoff yesterday that trimmed the field to 65 professionals and nine amateurs left out such well-known golfers as Lionel Hebert, Lafayette, La., the national PGA champion; Al Baldini, the Canadian; and Bo Winger, Odessa, Tex. Hebert had a 76 to wind up with 221. Baldini shot a terrible 83 for 225 and Winger had a 75 for 219. A score of 216 made the cutoff for the professionals.

The 6,326-yard Glen Lakes Country Club course was tougher for the players yesterday because of a stiff wind.

Brought one run add Byrne's pinch homer added three more. Jack Bauer's 17th homer finished off loser Jack Urban.

DERBY DUNK — When a fella's racing in the Soap Box Derby, he doesn't have time for a real dunk to cool off. So Alan Cagle of Dallas, Tex., simply filled his helmet and let 'er pour. The temperature was over 100 degrees.

Kell Hurt But to Try One More Year

BALTIMORE (AP) — George Kell, who has been telling his Baltimore Orioles teammates that this is his last season, said yesterday he has "an open mind on whether to play another season."

"It looks like I can still hit around .300," the Swifton, Ark., player said, "and next year couldn't be much worse than this one."

Kell suffered a severely sprained ankle Saturday — the third serious injury of the season for the 35-year-old infielder.

Now in his 14th major league season, Kell was called twice this year by both balls.

Kell started the year with a .037 lifetime average. He has his sights on making this the 10th season in which he topped .300.

But doctors give little encouragement to Kell's hope of playing the last few days of the season in an effort to reach that goal.

The Orioles paid Kell an estimated $35,000 this season.

Mrs. Miller Wins Women's Open

JONESBORO, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Joe Miller, Hol Springs, the Arkansas women's champion, won the Northeast Arkansas Women's golf tournament here yesterday with a 163 total for 36 holes.

Defending champion Elmore Karlson of Memphis finished third with 169.

Mrs. W. J. Kizsvich of Memphis was runnerup for the second straight year with 167.

Youth Victim of Shotgun Blast

JACKSONVILLE, Ark. (UP) — A 17-year-old Ark. youth was dead on arrival at the Jacksonville Hospital from an apparently accidental gunshot wound yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Marion Howes said the youth was Virgil Lee Hester of the Faulkner County community. He had a bullet wound in the right temple.

Rowe said the boy's two teen-aged cousins told him they thought the gun was unloaded. They said he playfully pointed it at his head and pulled the trigger.

though he showed improvement in his last start, Aug. 13, by holding Art Gillies to a draw, Cotton's 40-17-2 record includes 26 kayos.

Hart, Cotton in Comeback Fight

NEW YORK (UP) — Each fighter or will be seeking a comeback to night when welterweight Sugar Hart meets middleweight Charley Cotton in a TV 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

It will be televised by DuMont at 10:30 p. m. e. s. t.

Young Hart of Philadelphia hasn't fought since July 9, when he was stopped in the eighth round by Virgil Atkins.

The Sugar Boy is favored at 3-1 to beat Cotton tonight because Toledo Charley went into a tail spin shortly after last year's two victories over Joey Giardello, now ranked fourth in a middle-weight class.

Mitchell is Pleased With His Backfield

By The Associated Press
Coach Jack Mitchell, whose University of Arkansas Razorbacks have one of the best attacking backfields in the Southwest Conference, takes the usual dim view of Saturday night's game against Oklahoma State University at Little Rock.

Mitchell notes that Oklahoma State, formerly Oklahoma A & M, has "size, speed, experience, condition and morale. They'll outweigh us 10 to 15 pounds a man up front. They have 27 lettermen returning and probably have the best morale of any team in the country."

The Porkers They closed out their second week of practice Saturday with a "game condition" scrimmage at Fayetteville. The score was 47-19 and Mitchell was unhappy about the three touchdowns scored against his two top units.

"Our pass defense needs improving and our tackling was poor," Mitchell said. "We still haven't found a man who can kick off."

The Parker defense is "pitiful," the head coach said.

Arkansas has 16 lettermen from the team that compiled a 6-4 mark in 1956. Eight lettermen are backs. The degree of success with which Mitchell can build a strong second unit line is one of the big question marks of the 1957 Porkers.

Another big "if" is the strength of other Southwest Conference teams. The Porkers are better than last year collectively — but similarly how much better are Arkansas' rivals.

Hollywood Says Morros Didn't Fit The Part

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hearing that Boris Morros had spied on the Russians for 12 years and helped crack a spy ring, a former Hollywood associate of his remarked: "At first I couldn't believe it. Boris a spy? Impossible! But then I realized it could be. Boris could charm anyone — even the Russians."

Said another: "Boris as a cloak-and-dagger man. It's very bad casting. I worked closely with him for years and never thought of him as anything but an affable extrovert. In all those years, I never once heard him discuss politics."

This sampling gives you an indication of the shock with which Hollywood received the revelation of Morros' as an American spy. For he was an invulnerable character in a town where characters are a dime a dozen.

Nearly everyone I talked to remembered the Rosary.

"It was a string of beads he kept in his desk," said a publicity man. "He was always bringing it out and whirling it around. If you asked — and even if you didn't — he'd tell you that Rasputin gave it to him."

"No one really believed it, any more than we believed his stories that he played fiddle for the Czar. But Boris is such a fantastic character that it could have happened."

An associate in the Paramount music department recalled: "He looked exactly like a Buddha with his fat little body, his moon face and bland eyes. When he first came to Hollywood in 1935, he used a trick to attract attention. He had his shirts and ties made especially for him in New York."

"And what colors they were. The wildest combinations of plaids and stripes. They attracted attention, all right."

"Another co-worker testified to Morros' shrewdness: "He got too smart to be temperamental. Always he would present a charming front. You could insult him and he wouldn't get back at you — not for three years perhaps."

"He has a great improviser. He should give you dozens of ideas on the spur of the moment. They might have been borrowed from who knows where. But they were generally exciting ideas."

"One studio official remarked that Morros had to make a production of everything. The official sent a memo asking Morros for a small piece of music. Morros called him and said: "We're in show business. We don't do things by memos."

Morros could also be a trickster. At the pre-Christmas studio party, he would carry a vodka bottle and insist that everyone drink with him. While everyone was getting happily potted, Morros would swing from his vodka bottle, which was filled with water.

Only one studio official ever got an indication of Morros' connection with the Russians. He was invited to a wartime party at the Russian consulate. Present were various town screwballs and others who were to give unfriendly testimony to Congressional committees.

Present, too, as chubby, smiling Boris Morros, sipping vodka and slapping the back of the Russians' who had no notion that he was working for the U.S. government.

Jerry Lewis Not Worried About Change

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lewis, TV's golden boy of slapstick, is blithely untroubled by television's current craze for change.

"People who think nothing but new formulas, formats, directions and approaches seem to forget one element of show business — entertaining people," Lewis said.

"And he doesn't even care what the critics say."

"I've had my brains handed to me by them during the past year," he commented. "But you can't please both critics and public."

"I got a going over after my last television show — but the public wrote me 200,000 letters of thanks, an unprecedented thing."

Possessor of a contract which will pay him 7½ million dollars for 24 network performances over the next five years, Lewis is in a comfortable spot to pick his own path along the rating trail.

"I plan no changes," he said of his kickoff program under the contract. "It goes on NBC-TV Nov. 5. I know I can do it all the ingenious, clever things that would get rave reviews. But I've put them all away in favor of amusing to millions."

Carrie Closes in With Threat to Bermuda

MIAMI, Fla., (AP) — Hurricane Carrie threatened Bermuda with 50-mile-an-hour winds today, and the Air Force pulled back its hurricane hunter airplanes to safety at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Six of the B50s, including one crippled ship, were ordered back. Two of the aircraft were held on the ground at the island resort, 900 miles east-southeast of Cape Hatteras, N. C., and would fly into the eye of the storm before heading for the Florida base, the Air Force said.

The Air Force laid plans for staggering flights and keeping one plane with the storm at all times.

One B50, which lost an engine while tracking Carrie, was limping into West Palm Beach today under the command of Capt. Nick Kanter, a former Detroit, Mich., detective.

The Weather Bureau's 5 a.m. EST advisory said the storm with peak winds of 115 miles an hour, was located by aircraft 175 miles east of Bermuda. Little change was expected in size or intensity the following 12 hours.

Meanwhile, the Weather Bureau at New Orleans reported a tropical depression in the Gulf of Mexico and predicted some buildup through today. The bureau said that the low pressure area was about 500 miles south of the Louisiana coast with estimated winds of 25 m.p.h. in squalls.

Legion Parades at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — The colorful American Legion parades some 50,000 strong on the boardwalk of this famed resort city today with a jet plane accompaniment.

Up to half a million spectators were expected.

The holiday spirit of the parade came between committee meetings and the opening tomorrow of general sessions of the Legion's 39th annual convention.

The 12-hour parade probably the largest anywhere in the world, was being staged for the first time here.

Vast quantities of remedies for the treatment of blisters were paiting at the end of the line of march.

Marilyn Elaine Van Derbur, 20, of Denver, Colo., crowned here a few days ago as Miss America, had a special float to ride in during the parade.

The float was one of about 50 in the procession. Interspersed in the formation were about 160 bands, drum and bugle corps, color guard and drill teams.

Russia Celebrates 40th Anniversary

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — On Nov. 7 the Russians will celebrate the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. They will point with pride and make claims to progress made under communism in those four decades.

Already the American State Department has started trying to offset Russian claims to progress by publishing a 30-page booklet which belittles the Soviet record in such diverse fields as these:

Unionism, treatment of minorities, political freedom, equal rights of women, crime, religion, employment, housing, food, prostitution.

Nevertheless, State Department people are concerned about the real and undeniable progress the Russians have made in other ways. For instance, Science, the development of atomic weapons and jet planes.

In those 40 years Russia has risen to be the second most powerful nation on earth.

Yet, after 40 years of Communist agitation, promises and propaganda, not a single country has voluntarily turned to communism in open and free elections. The conquests have been by force or subversion.

As an example of how political liberty has disappeared — instead of gaining ground — in Russia the State Department quotes Lenin in 1903. That was when he wanted liberty himself and 11 years before he had the power to suppress it.

He said: "Political liberty means the right of the people to choose their own officials, to call meetings they please for the discussion of all the affairs of state."

The department notes that while Lenin's Russia was the least democratic in Europe, at least it permitted a wide variety of political parties. The Communists wiped out all parties but their own after they took over in 1917.

The Soviet constitution does not allow freedom to organize political parties. The police even control mimeograph machines which might be used for turning out political pamphlets in opposition to the Communist dictatorship.

The State Department quotes Lenin's advocacy of free speech and news — before the Revolution — and what he said in 1920, "three years after the Revolution:

"The periodical and nonperiodical press and all publishing enterprises must be entirely subordinate to the central committee of the party."

And the department adds on its own: "Of the literate population of the world, the Soviet people have on the least access to news."

The department also ridicules Russian claims to full employment. "Not only has unemployment appeared in the U.S.S.R., but it comes at a time when the claim to full employment was one of the remaining props on which to base their economic propaganda."

Ozan Man Is New FHA Committeeman

Truman Hill of Ozan, is the new Farmers Home Administration committeeman for Hempstead County. He succeeds Richard B. Arnold, who has served his full three year term. W. M. Sparks, the agency's county supervisor announced today.

Mr. Hill operates a farm at Ozan. The other two committeemen with unexpired terms are Roy F. Fry, Rt. 1, Fulton, Arkansas, and Chester D. Lester, Hope, Arkansas. Committee members serve 3-year terms arranged so that one member is appointed each year. The term of office begins July 1.

A member completing his term cannot succeed himself and at least two of the members must be farmers.

The county committee determines the eligibility of local farmers who apply for Farmers Home Administration loans. The committee also certifies the value of farms being purchased or improved with Farmers Home Administration loans and assists in adapting the loan program to local conditions. There are approximately 2,000 county committees in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Operating loans are used by farmers to buy quality livestock and machinery and to meet operating expenses incurred in adjusting and improving their farming methods. Real estate loans are used to buy, improve or enlarge family-type farms and to refinance certain debts. Loans are also available to farmers to establish and carry on approved soil and water conservation practices including the construction of farmstead water systems, terraces, irrigation and drainage systems. Farm Housing loans for building or remodeling farm homes and other necessary farm buildings are also provided.

Many of the real estate loans are made from funds advanced by private lenders and insured by the agency. Some of the real estate loans and all of the loans for operating farms are from annually appropriated funds.

The agency also makes emergency loans in areas where severe storms or other disasters have caused severe crop damage and increased the need for agricultural credit.

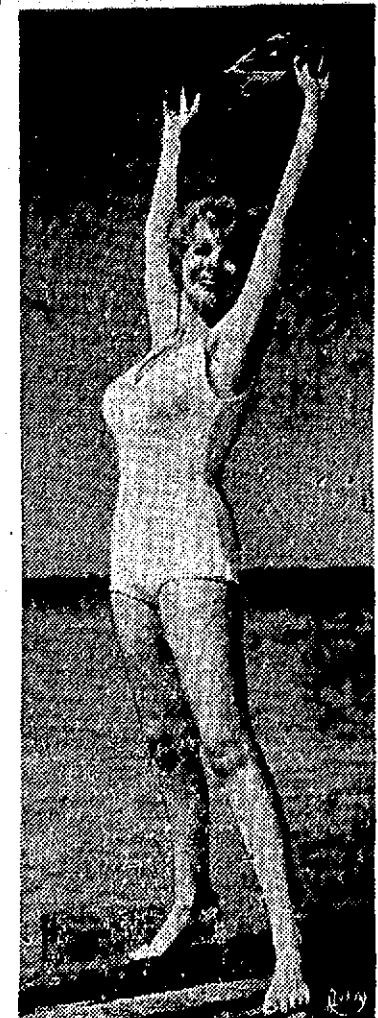

The agency does not make a loan of any type to an applicant whose credit needs can be handled by other credit sources.

14 Persons Meet Death by Violence

By The Associated Press

Fourteen persons died violently in Arkansas during the week which ended at midnight Sunday.

Traffic accidents took five lives, gunshots killed two persons and three died in separate plane crashes. A train accident, burns, a cave-in and an accidental electrocution accounted for the other deaths.

Two trucks sideswiped at dawn yesterday during a hard rain near Clarksville, killing Harrison Wood, 27, of Dover, and injuring two men. The accident occurred on a straight stretch of U. S. Highway 64.

Virgil Lee Hester, 17, of Cato, jokingly put a .22 caliber rifle to his head yesterday as two cousins watched and pulled the trigger.

Dr. Gordon Holt, Pulaski deputy coroner, ruled Hester's death accidental. Hester's cousins told police all three boys believed the rifle was empty.

A Negro deputy sheriff was found dead from gunshot wounds yesterday in Pine Bluff. Police said that Lustache Browder, 67, apparently was killed by an assailant using the officer's gun.

The head-on collision of a car and truck Saturday night near North Little Rock killed S. L. Roberts, 57, of near North Little Rock. Another man was slightly injured in the crash on U. S. Highway 63 just inside the city limits.

A 14-foot embankment near Kingsland in Cleveland County collapsed Saturday while Ernest Bunt, 27, was digging for gravel to build a porch for his home.

Bunt suffocated. His wife, Dorothy, 28, dug out their 4-year-old and 14-month-old daughters with her bare hands.

R. W. Davidson, 82, died at a Little Rock hospital Saturday a few hours after he walked into the side of a moving truck at Cabot, police said.
